GUI helps users interact with the system with the help of windows, menus, icons, etc. While the CLI, lets a user interact with their system with the help of various commands. Some softwares provide only CLI, while some offer both CLI and GUI.